Page 20, line 19: For the section beginning "It was on its face . . ." to the end of that paragraph, read

"It was on its face a departure from the principle established in the de Bloos case. A similar departure from principle was later to be recognised by the Rome Convention (Convention on the Law Applicable to Contractual Obligations (Rome, 19 June 1980) set out in Schedule 1 to the Contracts (Applicable Law) Act 1990) as a specific exception; and, as subsequent authority confirms, the case should be read as restricted to contracts of employment, and not regarded as of general application."
